

To complement Columbia's domestic production, the Import Division began importing hardwood plywood in 1995. The division has grown rapidly, becoming a leading importer of Russian birch and Chinese plywood in North America. With a wide selection of imported panel products from Indonesia, Malaysia, Taiwan, Africa and countries throughout South America and Europe, inventories are maintained regionally at strategic North American ports and Columbia Forest Products' plywood plant sites.

Customers enjoy the opportunity to mix imported and domestic panels in one order, with the confidence that all products have been provided by Columbia Forest Products. And, unlike most importers, Columbia's manufacturing expertise and extensive distribution network make it an attractive partner for offshore suppliers.
